“ I first met Brian when we were around 13 yrs. old and in Jr. High School. I realized he enjoyed fishing as much as I when he would ride his bike to my house and then we would ride to Cresswell's Pond. We continued fishing when we lived together after High School; Atchafalaya Basin, Vermilion Bay, Calcasieu, Ski Jump, and camping at Indian Creek. If we were near water, Brian was fishing.

We also shared food: Egg in the hole and See You Tomorrow Corn Casserole.

His mother would send meals in a sealed plastic bag which he would warm in boiling water, worked fine just don't fall asleep while it's boiling.

Brian also had a strong passion for music. I remember the first time I heard him sing "Mannish Boy" by Muddy Waters. Then came Delta Breeze and concerts at Grant Street. When he cried while we watched Eric Clapton in concert, I knew what "Feeling the Blues" meant.

FISH ON brother!
