“ Debbie was my big sister and best friend. I was blessed to have two incredible sisters. I have tried to leave something here since March but it makes the loss of her beautiful spirit and infectious smile new again. I don't have the words to express the loss. Almost every day I think of something I want to tell her and forget that I can't just phone her. I never have anything important to say , mostly sharing some funny memory.

Debbie was just an incredible human being. She was funny, wise, generous, kind and so much more. The last time we spoke it was on Facetime on my birthday, just a couple of weeks before she died. It was short but I treasure those last few minutes with her.

Debbie was strong and had overcome many challenges in life with determination and grace. She was an inspiration. My sisters were my role models and I wanted to be like them. I still want to be like them. I will never stop missing them.

If she can hear me now, I love you Deb. Why aren't there phones in heaven?
