Gwen was born on October 12, 1959 in Ville Platte, where she was a lifelong resident. Gwen was a devoted mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. She was a strong and loving presence in her family and friend's lives. Gwen was always there with a warm embrace. She found joy in her family and friends. Her family and friends were her main purpose in life. She carried on Cajun traditions, including the French language which she was taught at an early age by her grandmother. Gwen loved listening to country and French music. She will be deeply missed by all the lives she touched. We will miss her infectious laugh the most.

“ I remember my cousin being very beautiful. She had these magnificent eyes and this long shiny brown hair. She would play a 45 on a record player something about . . . Bully, Bully. I actually sometimes hear it on the radio at my sister's house and I instantly think of Gwen. Gwen, from your cousin Paula, may you rest in peace.
