"This is Lori's day,

My beautiful Lori where do we begin to speak about you. If you knew her, there is no doubt you loved her and no doubt she loved you as well. What a beautiful soul this girl had. So beautiful inside and out, a hard worker, a great friend, and one of the best sister's God gave us. She was dealt some hard times in her life, but never gave in or gave up. She never judged nor was ever envious of anyone or anything. She always had kind words about how good you looked, or just anything small she would let you know and made you feel good. Her boys, oh let me tell you those boys were her life, she gave up so much to make sure they had what they needed. To her grandkids, well we all know they were equally as important, she proved that when she gave up yet even more to help raise them. And all the while never asked for a thing. She worked harder than anyone I know and loved her customers so much. Coffee depot, you guys will never know how happy she was at her lil place of employment. Thank y'all for being so good to her. She fought a long hard battle but of course she did, that was Lori, a fighter and warrior. Till her last day here her words were "I'm not giving up" and of course you had better believe she gave it hell.

Lor, your work here on earth is done go rest high Sis."

“ I met Lori at Coffee Depot! She remembered everyone, she worked fast and always made time to greet and chat with everyone. I know from a few years of knowing her she did have a hard life. As an outsider looking in, she never gave up. She listened and encouraged me and my friends while she waited on us. She did not walk at work she ran! Yes a sweet soul for sure! I pray you are at peace, my friend and you deserve. I love you!

“ Ms. Lori, thank you for everything! Thank you for celebrating family milestones with us; from singing happy birthday to my little sister when she turned 18, sending me off to LSU with beneights and waffles, finding out I was pregnant and meeting my son 9 months later. Honestly, if I listed everything, this memory would be too long to post. Thank you for training me as a runner during the times I worked at the Coffee Depot and for being a welcoming presence to everyone you met. My family and I already miss sitting in your section during brunch. It will not be the same without you. Rest in peace.

Love,
