“ Lynn was one of a kind! She loved deeply, talked loudly, and didn't give a spit. She was a devoted wife, loving mother, and true friend. I remember meeting her for the first time at a faculty function. She was loud and proud, saying exactly what she thought, not giving a spit about who heard or if they liked it. She would speak with such love and concern for her family. I loved her laugh and twinkle in her eyes. Rest in the arms of Jesus, my dear friend. And speak your mind up there, too! Love you, still!

“ Lynn, I loved and admired the guts you had to speak in front of 100's of people if necessary! Your light will continue to shine through all of your students and former students! I always loved hearing your teaching tales! Sometimes they were unbelievable but I knew coming from you were so true. I use to love to hear dad tell you quit using your $40,000 words! Speak English so we can understand. You would say I am Daddy just listen! I was so lost that summer you were 15 and you stayed with Chuck and Lorraine in Michigan. I was so frightened when they called to say you were in ER with ruptured appendix. Couldn't wait for you to get home, I was only 6. These last few days since you have been gone I've walked around in a fog, but remembering all of the long talks and butting heads but especially the love we shared! I've wanted to call you and say Okay this is not funny, quit playing a joke on us! Call me back!! I need to talk to you!!! Thank you for being my big sister! Fly high my sweet sister!! Please watch over us!!!❤️❤️
