“ It was nice growing up with Rusty--someone to ask questions on how to do things, someone to reminisce with about our Dad, someone to laugh about things that happened in our family, someone that would let me drive his Mustang car and someone who sincerely cared about me and my life because he would frequently ask how I was doing. Rusty was my oldest brother and he acted that way. Rusty had a positive outlook on life and made you feel special. The world is a little less special now that he is gone. I will miss him a lot.
